Dear <<first_name>> <<last_name>>:

Harbin Clinic, LLC ("Harbin Clinic") is committed to protecting the confidentiality and security of its patients' information. Regrettably, Nationwide Recovery Services, Inc. ("NRS") recently notified Harbin Clinic that a data security incident experienced by NRS may have potentially involved some of your personal information. NRS is a third-party vendor that has provided debt collection services for delinquent accounts of individuals treated at Harbin Clinic, as well as services related to bankruptcies, lawsuits and patient estate matters. This notice explains the incident and outlines the measures we have taken in response and steps you can take.

What Happened?

It is our understanding that, in July 2024, NRS discovered suspicious activity related to its information technology systems, which resulted in a network outage. NRS indicated that it determined through an investigation there was unauthorized access to the NRS network between July 5, 2024 and July 11, 2024, during which time certain files and folders were illegally copied from NRS's systems by someone without authorization. NRS reported it began a lengthy review to determine what information was contained on the impacted NRS systems and which NRS clients were impacted.

As a result of this review, NRS notified Harbin Clinic in February 2025 that information from Harbin Clinic's patients may have been present on the impacted systems, but it was not yet able to identify which individuals had been impacted. In March, NRS provided Harbin Clinic with a list of individuals whose information may have been impacted by the incident.

What Information Was Involved?

We are notifying you because NRS determined that some of your information, in connection with being a guarantor on one or more Harbin Clinic patient accounts, may have been present on its impacted systems. According to NRS, this information may have included your name, address, Social Security number, date of birth and/or financial account information.

What Are We Doing?

NRS reported that it has no evidence to suggest there has been identify theft or fraud related to this incident. However, we wanted to notify you of this incident and assure you we take this very seriously. NRS reported that, upon becoming aware of this incident, it immediately took steps to confirm the security of its systems and to determine what information was potentially impacted, including notifying law enforcement. NRS also said it has implemented additional cybersecurity measures and reviewed existing security policies to protect against similar incidents moving forward.

While Harbin Clinic systems were not affected by this breach, Harbin Clinic has also taken the following steps to address the situation and prevent future occurrences:

- Harbin Clinic immediately blocked NRS's access to Harbin Clinic systems until a forensic investigation firm determined the threat had been eradicated from the NRS network.
- Harbin Clinic conducted a review of its own systems to ensure no indicators of compromise were present in its own network.
- Harbin Clinic engaged its privacy and cybersecurity teams to conduct an investigation of the incident and work with NRS to determine the scope of the breach and identify potentially impacted Harbin Clinic patients.

We are continuing to monitor, evaluate and enhance our security systems and controls, as appropriate, to minimize the risk of similar incidents in the future.

What Can You Do?

Unfortunately, cyber-attacks can and do happen every day all around the world. We encourage you to regularly review your financial accounts and report any suspicious or unrecognized activity to your financial institution immediately. Federal regulatory agencies recommend remaining vigilant for 12 to 24 months following a potential exposure of personal information. The enclosed reference guide includes additional information on general steps you can take to monitor and protect your personal information.

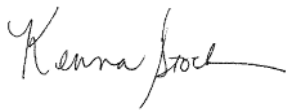

To help protect your identity, we are offering a complimentary 24 month membership of Kroll identity monitoring. To activate your membership and start monitoring your personal information, please follow the steps outlined in the attached addendum.

Other Important Information.

We are truly sorry this happened and apologize for any concern or inconvenience this incident may cause.

Fraud Alerts and Credit or Security Freezes

Fraud alerts: There are two types of general fraud alerts you can place on your credit report to put your creditors on notice that you may be a victim of fraud – an initial alert and an extended alert. You may ask that an initial fraud alert be placed on your credit report if you suspect you have been, or are about to be, a victim of identity theft. An initial fraud alert stays on your credit report for one year.

You may have an extended alert placed on your credit report if you have already been a victim of identity theft, with the appropriate documentary proof. An extended fraud alert stays on your credit report for seven years.

To place a fraud alert on your credit reports, free of charge, contact one of the nationwide credit bureaus. The credit bureau you contact must tell the other two and all three will place an alert on their versions of your report.

For those in the military who want to protect their credit while deployed, an active-duty military fraud alert lasts for one year and can be renewed for the length of your deployment. The credit bureaus will also take you off their marketing lists for pre-screened credit card offers for two years, unless you ask them not to.

Credit or security freezes: You have the right to put a credit freeze, also known as a security freeze, on your credit file, free of charge, which makes it more difficult for identity thieves to open new accounts in your name. Most creditors need to see your credit report before they approve a new account. If they can't see your report, they may not extend the credit.

How do I place a freeze on my credit reports? There is no fee to place or lift a security freeze. Unlike a fraud alert, you must separately place a security freeze on your credit file at each credit reporting company. For information and instructions to place a security freeze, contact each of the credit reporting agencies at the addresses below:

- Experian Security Freeze, P.O. Box 9554, Allen, TX 75013, www.experian.com.
- TransUnion Security Freeze, P.O. Box 160, Woodlyn, PA 19094, www.transunion.com.
- Equifax Security Freeze, P.O. Box 105788, Atlanta, GA 30348, www.equifax.com.

You'll need to supply your name, current and former addresses (for the past five years), date of birth, Social Security number, any applicable incident report or complaint with law enforcement or the Registry of Motor Vehicles, a copy of a government-issued identification card and a copy of a recent utility bill or bank or insurance statement.

After receiving your freeze request, each credit bureau will provide you with a unique personal identification number (PIN) or password. Keep the PIN or password in a safe place. You will need it if you choose to lift the freeze.

How do I lift a freeze? A freeze remains in place until you ask the credit bureau to temporarily lift it or remove it altogether. If the request is made online or by phone, a credit bureau must lift a freeze within one hour. If the request is made by mail, then the bureau must lift the freeze no later than three business days after getting your request.

If you opt for a temporary lift because you are applying for credit or a job, and you can find out which credit bureau the business will contact for your file, you can save some time by lifting the freeze only at that particular credit bureau. Otherwise, you need to make the request with all three credit bureaus.
