Key Evidence You Need To Prove a Data Breach Claim

of the bata bleach	Proof	of the	Data	Breacl	1
--------------------	--------------	--------	-------------	---------------	---

Notifications from the company responsible, such as letters, emails, or public disclosures
Government or regulatory findings, such as reports from the Federal Trade Commission or the state attorney general
News reports from third-party sources covering the breach

Evidence of Your Compromised Personal Information

Your Social Security number
Government identification, such as your driver's license or passport
Insurance information
Bank account information or credit card details

Proof of Financial or Emotional Harm

Bank statements showing fraudulent transactions
Credit reports indicating unauthorized accounts
Identity theft or police reports
Documentation of emotional distress, such as medical records, therapists' notes, and personal statements

Communications With the Company Responsible

Correspondence with the breached entity regarding security concerns
Customer service responses or denial of assistance
Records of filed complaints with the company

Witness Statements

Your daily life and ability to functionYour finances, including new debt or significant financial lossYour emotional well-being