Nature of the Data Event

On August 22, 2025, KCI identified suspicious activity on its network and immediately took steps to secure its systems and launched an investigation with the assistance of third-party cybersecurity and digital forensics specialists to determine the nature and scope of the activity. KCI also reported the event to federal law enforcement. The investigation subsequently determined that certain files were subject to unauthorized access by an unknown actor on the date of the event and that certain information was viewed or downloaded. KCI then undertook a comprehensive third-party data review of the potentially impacted data. Following the third-party review, KCI completed a time-intensive internal review of the records to determine what information was present on the systems and to whom the information related. KCI then worked to identify contact information to provide notifications. This review was recently completed.

The information that could have been subject to unauthorized access for Maine residents includes: name and Social Security number.

Further, KCI reported this event to federal law enforcement. KCI is also reviewing existing policies and procedures and working to implement additional cybersecurity safeguards. KCI is providing access to credit monitoring and identity restoration services for one (1) year, through Experian, to individuals whose personal information was potentially affected by this event, at no cost to these individuals. KCI also established a dedicated assistance telephone line to address any questions or concerns from notified individuals.

Monitor Your Accounts

Under U.S. law, a consumer is entitled to one free credit report annually from each of the three major credit reporting bureaus, Equifax, Experian, and TransUnion. To order a free credit report, visit www.annualcreditreport.com or call, toll-free, 1-877-322-8228. Consumers may also directly contact the three major credit reporting bureaus listed below to request a free copy of their credit report.

Consumers have the right to place an initial or extended “fraud alert” on a credit file at no cost. An initial fraud alert is a one-year alert that is placed on a consumer’s credit file. Upon seeing a fraud alert display on a consumer’s credit file, a business is required to take steps to verify the consumer’s identity before extending new credit. If consumers are the victim of identity theft, they are entitled to an extended fraud alert, which is a fraud alert lasting seven years. Should consumers wish to place a fraud alert, please contact any of the three major credit reporting bureaus listed below.

As an alternative to a fraud alert, consumers have the right to place a “credit freeze” on a credit report, which will prohibit a credit bureau from releasing information in the credit report without the consumer’s express authorization. The credit freeze is designed to prevent credit, loans, and services from being approved in a consumer’s name without consent. However, consumers should be aware that using a credit freeze to take control over who gets access to the personal and financial information in their credit report may delay, interfere with, or prohibit the timely approval of any subsequent request or application they make regarding a new loan, credit, mortgage, or any other account involving the extension of credit. Pursuant to federal law, consumers cannot be charged to place or lift a credit freeze on their credit report. To request a credit freeze, individuals may need to provide some or all of the following information:

1. Full name (including middle initial as well as Jr., Sr., II, III, etc.);
2. Social Security number;
3. Date of birth;
4. Addresses for the prior two to five years;
5. Proof of current address, such as a current utility bill or telephone bill;
6. A legible photocopy of a government-issued identification card (state driver’s license or ID card, etc.); and
7. A copy of either the police report, investigative report, or complaint to a law enforcement agency concerning identity theft if they are a victim of identity theft.

Should consumers wish to place a credit freeze or fraud alert, please contact the three major credit reporting bureaus listed below:
