NOTICE OF DATA BREACH

Dear [Recipient Name]:

Rotstein & Shiffman LLP ("we," "us," or "our") is writing to tell you about a data security incident that involved some of your personal information. We take the privacy and security of your information very seriously. This letter explains what happened, what information was involved, what we are doing in response, and steps you can take to help protect yourself.

WHAT HAPPENED?

On October 26, 2026, we discovered that our computer network was affected by a ransomware attack, a type of cyberattack in which an unauthorized party gains access to computer systems and encrypts or locks data. We immediately took steps to contain the incident, disconnected affected systems, and engaged outside cybersecurity experts to investigate. We also notified law enforcement and have cooperated with its investigation. Our investigation determined that an unauthorized party acquired or gained access to certain files on our systems containing your personal information.

WHAT INFORMATION WAS INVOLVED?

The files accessed by the unauthorized party may have contained the following information about you: your name, Social Security number, telephone number, email address, and medical records, which may include information about your medical history, mental or physical condition, medical treatment or diagnosis by a health care professional.

WHAT WE ARE DOING

After discovering the incident, we isolated affected systems and removed the unauthorized party's access; restored our systems from secure backups and reset account credentials; engaged independent cybersecurity specialists to investigate the scope of the incident; implemented additional security measures, including enhanced endpoint detection and monitoring and multifactor authentication, to protect personal information from further unauthorized access; and notified law enforcement and are notifying applicable state regulators and the nationwide consumer reporting agencies, as required by law.

WHAT YOU CAN DO

We encourage you to remain vigilant against incidents of identity theft and fraud by reviewing your account statements, explanation of benefits statements from your health insurer, and medical bills, and by monitoring your free credit reports for suspicious activity. We also recommend that you:

1. Review your credit reports. You are entitled to free credit reports from each of the three nationwide consumer reporting agencies. Visit www.annualcreditreport.com or call 1-877-322-8228.
2. Review medical and insurance records. Contact your health care providers and health insurer if you see services you did not receive, and request copies of your records if you suspect medical identity theft.

3. Place a fraud alert. You may place a free initial fraud alert on your credit file by contacting any one of the consumer reporting agencies below. That agency will notify the other two.
4. Place a security freeze. You may place a security freeze on your credit file free of charge. A freeze prevents new credit from being opened in your name without your authorization. You must contact each consumer reporting agency separately. You may need to provide your full name, Social Security number, date of birth, current and prior addresses, and a copy of a government-issued identification.
5. Know your rights under the Fair Credit Reporting Act. The federal Fair Credit Reporting Act gives you rights, including the right to know what is in your credit file and the right to dispute, correct, or delete information. For more information, visit www.consumerfinance.gov/learnmore or contact the Consumer Financial Protection Bureau, 445 12th Street SW, Washington, D.C. 20024.
6. Be alert to phishing. Because your email address and telephone number were involved, be cautious of unsolicited emails, texts, or calls asking for personal information. We will not contact you to request your Social Security number or passwords.
7. Report suspected identity theft to law enforcement, your state Attorney General, and the Federal Trade Commission, and file a police report if you are a victim. Keep a copy of the report.
